

Please consider that the potential loss of broadcasting by K-LOVE will affect a large audience across the United States. Because of its large audience, only FM broadcast will serve the needs for this station. Both my husband and I have switched to K-Love in the last five years, and truly appreciate the quality of this listener supported station. We listen to the 'on the hour' newscasts, messages, and particularly the inspirational music that calms and strengthens us on our daily rides to work, and on our long-distance rides on holidays to visit with relatives.

If K-LOVE were to be replaced by an LPFM broadcaster providing other programming, we would lose a very purposeful communication, and would choose to not listen to the radio and keep in touch with events around the world. We would choose to play CDs on our car system, and (in essence) discredit the value of radio in our lives.

Please consider what would happen to K-LOVE when debating the value of LPFM translators given a priority over FM translators.
